

President Acts to Halt Drain of U.S. Gold

By JOHN SCALI

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower today called a meeting of the nation's top National Security Council advisers to discuss emergency moves to halt the drain on American gold and dollar resources.

Military, foreign policy and financial leaders of the Eisenhower administration were told to fly to the President's Georgia vacation headquarters for a conference Thursday.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, resting in Florida from the political campaign, was to be the only administration leader missing from the roster of NSC advisers.

Central Intelligence Agency Director Allen W. Dulles and Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were due to join Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson and Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates Jr. at the meeting.

Striving for his cherished goal of a sound dollar, Eisenhower Tuesday ordered government agencies to adopt emergency moves to cut down the amount of money they spend overseas.

Convicted Atom Spy Out of Jail

By HAL MCCLURE

NEW YORK (AP) — David Greenglass, the convicted atom bomb spy who helped send his sister and her husband to the electric chair, went free today after 9½ years in prison.

The short, meek-appearing man emerged at 8:33 a. m. from the federal house of detention. He was accompanied by his attorney, O. John Rogge, who ruled out any statement.

Greenglass appeared terrified as he confronted 60 newsmen and photographers and heard derogatory shouts from longshoremen and truckers attracted to the scene.

"Drop dead, you lousy Communist!" a voice in the hostile crowd yelled as Greenglass and his attorney got into a taxicab and left for an undisclosed destination.

Someone else directed the cab. "Drive him off the pier, right into the river, the dirty rat."

Greenglass accepted the slurs in silence.

Russia Will Not Deal With Ike

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union wrote off the Eisenhower administration as a disarmament bargain Tuesday night and made clear she will only do business with the incoming Kennedy government.

Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, sparked an angry rebuff from the U. S. ambassador who called Moscow's position an unjustified interference in the internal affairs of the United States.

The exchange made clear to delegates that the current General Assembly's attempt to resolve the arms deadlock faces a dead end.

Zorin and U. S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth clashed in the political committee after the Soviet delegate threw his support behind a compromise resolution submitted by India and co-sponsored by a group of uncommitted nations.

Zorin said the resolution presented by India's V. K. Krishna Menon had its faults, but that it presented the best hope for solution of the disarmament deadlock.

Wadsworth countered that the Indian proposal was unacceptable unless it was changed to make it clearer and give it more balance. The United States favors many parts of the resolution, he said, but feels it would "tie the hands of negotiators when they sit down at the table."

In view of the position taken by Wadsworth Zorin said the only solution was a spring session of the assembly on the arms issue at the summit level.

Zorin expressed hope President-Elect John F. Kennedy's incoming administration would "seriously ponder this" and take steps at the spring session to make agreement on disarmament possible.

TEXARKANA (AP) — The plant of the International Croscutting and Construction Co. here has been struck by some 150 union employees in a wage dispute.

The present wage scale ranges from $1.22 to $1.64 an hour.

Says Platform Must Be Carried Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor leadership says that President-elect John F. Kennedy's scant victory margin in no way lessens his responsibility to carry out the Democratic platform.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said as much at a banquet Tuesday night. He took issue with those who say that the closeness of the vote means Kennedy really has no mandate from the people. These expressions, he said, come uniformly from anti-Kennedy people.

"This might be a good time to set out the AFL-CIO position," Meany said. "We feel we supported a candidate who ran on a political platform. We know what's in that platform because we helped draft it."

"As far as we're concerned, we expect the successful candidate to carry out that platform in the days ahead when he takes over his job as president of the United States," Meany said.

Meany thus expresses insistence that the AFL-CIO—having given all-out support to Kennedy first for the nomination then during the campaign—expects Democratic platform pledges to be carried out fully.

The AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department said in a published article that the policies of President Eisenhower's administration have been "directed toward curbing the unions" and it is time to restore collective bargaining "as a cornerstone of national policy."

Baptist Pick Benton Pastor as President

By JOHN JUTTON

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Dr. Bernes K. Selph of Benton was elected to a second one-year term as president of the Arkansas Baptist Convention at the church group's 107th meeting here today.

Election of officers and consideration of a proposed $1,750,000 budget for the coming year were the principal matters for the convention's second day.

The Rev. William M. Walker of Walnut Ridge was elected first vice president and the Rev. Ed F. McDonald of Newport was named second vice president.

Dr. S. A. Whitlow of Little Rock was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The convention ends Thursday. About 1,000 delegates are attending.

H. E. Williams, a Baptist preacher and an unsuccessful candidate for governor last summer, told the convention last night that separation of church and state is no longer possible on the college level.

Redistricting May Be Up to Congressmen

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Official notice from the federal Census Bureau that Arkansas would lose two congressmen as a result of the 1960 census has renewed speculation about how the 1961 Legislature will realign the state into four, rather than six, congressional districts.

Several legislators who wrestled with a similar difficult task in 1951 said they would prefer that the present six congressmen reach some kind of agreement on redistricting and make recommendations to the General Assembly.

"If the congressmen can come up with something, I'll go along," said Rep. Glenn Walther of Pulaski County, a House leader.

The Legislature would not be bound by the congressmen's proposal, but it is considered likely that most lawmakers would prefer a compromise to political infighting such as accompanied the 1951 redistricting, when the congressmen failed to reach any agreement.

The basic solution in 1951 was a merger of the south and west Arkansas districts of Reps. Orel Harris of El Dorado and Boyd Tackett of Texarkana. Harris ran for reelection in 1952 and won. Tackett ran for governor and lost.

Rep. W. P. Norrell of the Sixth District predicted that the congressmen will be unable to reach an agreement. "It's something the state will have to decide," he said. He made it clear he does not intend to retire to reduce the field of incumbents who must share the remaining four jobs.

One redistricting proposal which has gained some backing would divide Norrell's district between Harris' Fourth District and Rep. E. C. Gathings' First District. The Second and Third Districts would be combined and a new central Arkansas district would be carved out of the industrial counties — Pulaski, Saline, Garland, Jefferson and Hot Spring.

Each congressman, of course, is interested in a method of redistricting that will make it easiest for him to get reelected. This would mean that a majority of voters in his new district would be from his old district.

The only alternative to redistricting would be to require all candidates for congress to run at large. The congressmen don't want this.

Counterfeit $100 Bill Is Found

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A counterfeit $100 bill has been found at the First National Bank at Fort Smith, the U. S. Secret Service said Tuesday.

The bill apparently had changed hands several times since originally placed into circulation Leroy M. Lettice, special agent in charge of the Secret Service office here, said.

Lettice said nine men and women were arrested in states other than this and charged with possessing and passing $100 bills made from the same plate as the one which turned up at Fort Smith.

The bills first turned up in Missouri last July, Lettice said. Others were discovered in Oklahoma, California, North Dakota, South Dakota and Texas.

Rail Service Hearing Is Underway

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Missouri Pacific Railroad today began presenting its case for abandonment of the last remaining passenger service on its 60-mile branch between El Dorado and Gurdon.

A large delegation of south Arkansas residents was on hand to register a protest against the proposed discontinuance.

Missouri Pacific finishes its testimony before the Arkansas Commerce Commission.

The railroad now operates one round trip daily between El Dorado and Gurdon, where the branch connects with Missouri Pacific's main line between St. Louis and Texas.

In its petition to the commission, Missouri Pacific said that it had been losing money on the run for years.

It declared that the out of pocket cost of operation was more than 4 1-2 times as great as revenue and that wages alone were three times as great.

Protestants arrived for the hearing by special bus, which started from El Dorado and picked up additional passengers at other south Arkansas points.

There was no indication when the commission may rule on the proposed abandonment.

Customary cases are kept under consideration for some time after hearings to permit the commissioners to study transcripts of testimony.

Magnetic Storm Disrupts Radio

WASHINGTON (AP) — A worldwide magnetic storm — the most severe in at least 10 years — has disrupted short-wave radio communications for several days and is still continuing, a government scientist said today.

Such storms are caused by disturbances on the surface of the sun, commonly called sunspots.

James Weldon, head of the world warning agency of the National Bureau of Standards, said the storm has been particularly intense on the north Atlantic path of radio communications, the one linking New York, London, Washington and Paris.

But it also has affected radio transmissions across the Pacific, he said.

Weldon said the storm reached a peak of 268 on "a scale" used to rate severity. Anything over 50 on this scale is considered a major magnetic storm. The 268 figure was measured at a government magnetic observatory near Washington, and occurred on Nov. 13.

Weldon said the storm died down considerably after that, but surged up again Tuesday night.

Calls Case of New Orleans Dictatorship

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus today called the New Orleans integration situation a "judicial dictatorship that resembles the actions of Hitler's judges in Nazi Germany."

Decisions by a federal judge striking down anti-integration laws passed by the Legislature have "completely thwarted the will of the people," Faubus said.

"The Legislature speaks for the people,"

Faubus said such judicial action "leads to crushing the people completely."

Until today, Faubus had refrained from commenting at length on the New Orleans situation, which is somewhat similar to the Little Rock integration crisis in which Faubus was involved three years ago.

He said his observations were drawn from reading newspaper accounts of what has happened in New Orleans. He said he has not been in contact with any Louisiana leaders and that he had no advice to offer them.

On other matters at his news conference today, Faubus said:

MINIMUM WAGE: Voters rejected a minimum wage proposal in the Nov. 8 election because they did not like controls included in the bill. "If it had been a simple minimum wage act, I believe they would have passed it."

WELFARE: "I have recommended to the White House Conference on Aging that it back legislation to permit welfare clients to earn small amounts of money without losing all or part of their welfare checks."

REDISTRICTING: "I have the inclination to regard redistricting as the primary concern of the congressmen and the people." (This was in response to a question for his ideas on how the 1961 Legislature should redistrict the state to take care of the loss of two House seats.)

Contract Let for Dam Reservoir

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — U. S. Army Engineers today awarded a contract for major construction on Beaver Dam Reservoir near Pureka Springs to a combine of J. A. Jones Construction Co. of Charlotte, N. C., and T. L. James & Co. of Ruston, La.

The companies submitted a joint low proposal of $15,913,639 when bids were opened recently.

The Engineers awarded a contract for bank stabilization work along the Arkansas River east of Little Rock to Southeast Construction Co., Inc. of Pine Bluff. The Southeast bid was $229,795.

WEST PLAINS, Mo. (AP) — A Mountain Home, Ark., truck driver was killed today when his trailer truck overturned on U. S. 160 about 18 miles west of here. He was Donald Alfred Rice 23, who was driving a flat-bed truck loaded with chickens.

Boycott Has Almost Halted Education

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A silent reception greeted three Negro first graders today when they arrived at school as the New Orleans public school integration entered its third day.

Unlike the first two days of the integration dispute, only a few of spectators turned out at McDonogh No. 19, one of the two all-white schools integrated by federal court order.

There were no boos yells or taunts.

The number of white school children attending McDonogh fell off. Only two were seen entering the school — its normal enrollment 467 — when the bell rang.

Louisiana legislators Tuesday urged white parents to keep their children away from the integrated schools.

But one mile away from the silent school 50 cars filled with young teenagers carrying signs paraded along streets near the industrial canal.

Police cut off the caravan at the canal.

Some signs bore the insignia "KKK." Youthful shouts from the sides of the cars. Car horns sounded a nearly constant blare of noise.

At William Frantz school the one Negro girl showed up late, nearly at 9:30 a. m. The crowd that watched four U. S. marshals escort her into the school was smaller, probably under 200.

Two white children carried an effigy of a little Negro girl through the crowd. There were cheers.

Police escorted the two children a block away from the school before the Negro first-grader arrived.

There were cheers for a mother withdrawing her white child from the school, jeers and taunts of "nigger-lover" for parents who brought their child to school.

Impeachment of a federal judge who ordered the integration was reported under discussion as the lawmakers ended a 12-day special session at Baton Rouge in early morning hours.

A rare closed session was called today to start a new special 30-day meeting called by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis.

Both houses approved a resolution urging a boycott of the integrated schools. The House approved it 93-2 and it passed the Senate 34-4.

An estimated 10,000 white pupils stayed away from city schools Tuesday, the second day of efforts to integrate two local schools. Many absentees took part in rowdy demonstrations that brought 11 arrests.

Louisiana's U. S. senators and congressmen were asked to attend the closed session and help halt federal intervention.

The resolution calling for their appearance was aimed at U. S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright, who issued the integration order and thwarted segregationists' efforts to resist it.

TRIAL BY SLANDER
By Travis Macrine

THE STORY: Neighbors are beginning to talk about Janet Hamilton, a young widow, who has fallen in love with Dr. Jason Whiting, a college instructor. She has not revealed her romance to neighbors because Jason is seeking to obtain a divorce.

CHAPTER XV

Janet stretched out on one of the twin beds in the guest room planning only to close her eyes and rest a little in the hushed orderly room. In five minutes she was fast asleep, her face relaxed, one hand pressed under her cheek. The rain beat ceaselessly against the roof and splashed against window panes. The boys, prowled around her bedroom and through the house in search of amusement. Janet slept on.
A pounding noise awakened her.
Groggily, she sat up. She looked at her watch. Its hands pointed to four o'clock and she jumped from the bed. The pounding continued.

"Johnny! Bruce! Where are you? Answer the door, will you!"
No one answered. She looked out of the window and saw that the rain had stopped; she heard voices in play on the other side of the house.

"I'm coming," she called, running downstairs to the back door with perspiration breaking out on her face to make her aware that the heat had not abated along with the rain.

She opened the door. It was the cleaner's delivery man. In a laconic fashion he poked in her face a paper-covered garment on a hanger. He was a tall, thin youth with bright red hair that was as wet as though he'd stepped out of a shower and his sweat shirt lived up to its name.

"Dollar fifty," he intoned.
Janet climbed the stairs again to get her purse from her bedroom. She returned to the kitchen fumbling in her wallet. "I don't seem to have anything but a $20 bill. Can you change it?" she tried to run her household on a cash basis, reserving charge accounts for city department stores.
"No, I can't." The answer was snarled at her.

She looked up at him in surprise. He never had been particularly courteous or pleasant. Neither had he been downright rude before.
"Well it's all I have," she answered. His reddish brown eyes under sparse colorless lashes met direct gray ones. It was he who broke the silence.

He exploded. "I'm supposed to pay for it myself? You'd think you dames could at least go to the bank. Nothin' else to do. I just don't seem to have any change today." His voice rose to a falsetto as he mimicked countless housewives his route had led to during the heat of the week.

"Look here," Janet snapped back. "There's no need to be rude. I'll pay you next time. And you'd better watch your manners or I'll report you."

Without a word he threw the garment onto a stool, turned on his heels and slammed the door shut. Janet heard the grinding gears of his truck as it roared furiously down the street.

This heat is ruining everyone's disposition — including mine — she thought, ashamed at having lost her temper with the redheaded beast. As the boys called him.

She ate dinner by herself, long after the boys had gone to sleep.
She decided to carry her iced tea to the terrace where she could catch a stray breeze.

The half-grown puppy padded at her heels and flopped down on the wet flagstone next to the lawn chair she set up. She smiled down in the darkness at an arrow lying across her lap. She had stumbled over it while fumbling for the chair, stacked with others against the house.

"Jason, darling," she murmured aloud. How much he had to learn about gifts suitable for small boys.

She pressed her thumb against the point and said "ouch" as she withdrew it, the skin punctured.
It was even sharper than she had imagined. Tomorrow, first thing, she must find the remaining two

Kennedy to Texas Meet
With Johnson

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—
President-elect John F. Kennedy flies today to the Texas ranch of the new administration's vice president, Lyndon B. Johnson, for planning of the forthcoming switch of power from Republican hands.

The Kennedy-Johnson talks beginning this evening and continuing through Thursday are expected to deal also with preliminary formulation of a congressional legislative program against the background of campaign promises on a wide range of domestic and international matters.

The Democratic winners will be meeting for the first time since their election last week over Republicans Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge.

Kennedy arranged to take off from his vacation headquarters in the late afternoon aboard a chartered jet airliner. From Palm Beach he flies to Bergstrom Air Force Base near Austin, Tex., and switches there to a small plane for about a 60-mile flight to the LBJ ranch at Johnson City.

Johnson, who moves to the vice presidency in January from his powerful post as Senate Democratic leader, arranged to meet Kennedy at Bergstrom and escort him to the ranch.

After a tour of the ranch and dinner, the president-elect and Johnson will get down to serious talking about the Kennedy program for moving America ahead in the 1960s.

Scheduled Thursday is a full round of further conferences into the early evening but there may be some time out for recreation.
The Texas hunting season for white-tail deer opens a few hours after Kennedy's arrival, and herds of these swift animals are a familiar sight on the LBJ ranch on the Pedernales River.

Kennedy plans to be back at Palm Beach, where since last Friday he has been staying at the home of his parents, by midnight
Thursday.

The Florida stay has been a combination of work and relaxation. Tuesday afternoon the president-elect conferred for two hours with one of his earliest and staunchest supporters, Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut.
Then they played nine holes of golf—and Ribicoff reported Kennedy the winner, one-up in match play.

Ribicoff, also is vacationing in Florida, has been mentioned prominently for a Cabinet post or some other key position in the new administration.

But he told a news conference
after his session with Kennedy that the president-elect made him no job offer.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas AFL-CIO convention was told Tuesday to look for "young and fresh" approaches to problems under the administration of President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Pittsburgh Steam Generating Plant.
The name was decided Tuesday night at a meeting of the co-op's board of directors.

Pittsburgh was a pioneer in cooperative power in Arkansas and was serving as attorney for the Arkansas Electric Co-operative Corp. at the time of its death in 1954.

Another speaker Tuesday, Gov.
Orval B. Faubus, mentioned several times that he was friendly to labor and reminded the union leaders he supported the AFL-CIO sponsored minimum wage law which was defeated in the Nov. 8 general election.

"If you had a governor who operated as an attorney for the state, he would be a failure," Faubus said in declaring that organized labor is not as strong as some groups.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said the Kennedy administration will be a "working administration, one of action and progress."
"I think this is the kind of leadership we need to inspire us to do the things that America can do," Hartke said.

Bennett Calls for Probe of New Building

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett said Tuesday he thought the state's three-year-old Justice Building was a "physical hazard to those who occupy it," but architect Noland Blass Jr. said the structure was "100 per cent safe."

Bennett said floors and walls have sagged, that cracks have developed in the plaster and said wall paneling inside and marble panels outside the structure are loose. He said the condition of the building is tragic and said the Justice Building Commission should force the architect and contractor to make repairs.

Blass said the interior cracks to which Bennett referred were due to design changes and the elimination of expensive footings caused by a lack of construction funds. He denied that anyone erred in the designed or construction of the building.

A repair contract with Harmon Construction Co. of Oklahoma less Trout and family and Mr. Spillers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Spillers of Texarkana. Mr. Spillers is an Air Traffic Controller with the Federal Aviation Agency at Moses Point. They will be joined at Thanksgiving by their son David Spillers, who is a student at William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo.

DOROTHY DIX Should Children's Reading Be Censored?

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen:

In our small town our librarian reads or has a qualified school teacher read every novel that comes over her desk. If these books aren't up to snuff, they are not loaned out to teen-agers.

I say "Bravo" and may she live to be 100. We have enough trouble with teenagers without turning them loose on trash before they are able to cope with it.

Dear Mother of Two Daughters: It depends upon what you call trash. I can best answer you by quoting from John Erskine's "The Complete Life." In the chapter on "How To Be A Parent," he says: "It's rather shabby for us to live vicariously in our children, taking away their chance to be themselves, shirking our plain duty to move on with the age to which we belong."

"It isn't true, not in any respect, that we know more than they about life. Our youth was spent in a society which is gone. The children know more than we do about the society which is here."

"If a mother says to her daughter, 'When I was young, it wasn't correct for a girl to do so-and-so,' there is no reason why the daughter shouldn't reply, 'But it is correct now.' If we feel that City Okla., the original contractor, will be signed by the building commission soon," Blass said.

daughter should have a better definition of a girl's dress, we should admit that her definition is the same as Mother's. Both are speaking of the manners generally accepted. In their youth, they were accepted. In their youth, they were accepted. In their youth, they were accepted.

"What we can stand on are the truths which are independent of fashion, the truths which all generations must recognize in the physical world, the psychological, the moral, and the spiritual."

I would suggest, dear Mother of Two, that since you believe in censoring your daughters' reading, you be the censor, but be mindful that your censorship is of the times. It could be an education for you too!

Dear Helen:

I am 18, pretty and in good figure, but everything is black around me. Lately I met a guy, I went for him and without realizing, gave myself to him. I can't forgive myself. I was brought up to be religious. What boy wants to marry a girl who isn't a virgin? Can my parents ever forgive me even what they don't know?

Help! — L. V.

Dear L. V.: Jesus said, "Go and sin no more." The very fact that you repent is atonement. Keep your defections to yourself. Confessing them will help no one. But unless you develop the strength of character to resist temptation, talking to me, you really will be in trouble. The inability to curb your emotions indicates immaturity. Grow up!

Dear Helen:

I am a girl of 14. A neighbor, 17, introduced me to a boy from another town. He asked me to go for a ride the same night. Daddy said, "I shouldn't," so I never did. He came back every night after that for eight nights in a row. We talked and he told me he was 15, always went to church and lived the word of wisdom. I believed him. He asked me for a date. I accepted.

The following day I met my aunt at a reunion. She is his neighbor. She told me if I went with him my reputation would be ruined. So when he came after me, I refused to go with him. Later a girl friend started going with him. My girl friend had a party. I was invited and so was he. I found out there that he would be 18 in February, not 16. What shall I do? — A Wonderer.

Dear Wonderer: Trust the judgment of your father and aunt. This boy sounds like a fast talker. It often happens that the more beguiling, the more unprincipled they are.

L. R. School Case Filed in Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A brief filed with the U. S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis by attorneys for the Little Rock School Board Tuesday said the board will continue with "all deliberate speed" to carry out a court-approved plan for desegregation.

The court will hear oral arguments by attorneys Thursday on the matter in which the board has carried out its plan for integration.

An appeal lodged by 21 Negro students contended pupils should be assigned to schools solely on the basis of attendance areas.

The school board maintains it has the right to "screen" students in accordance with state laws and its regulations dealing with pupil assignment.

U. S. District Judge John B. Miller ruled in favor of the school board last August and the Negroes appealed.

day and shot her six times. Mrs. Young's 16-year-old daughter, Linda, 16, and Joyce, 13, were in the room at the time.

Deputy Sheriff Clyde Barker said at Wilson that Mrs. Young's former husband, William Young, a farm laborer, was being sought for questioning.

TECH TO BE THE FASTEST YET

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — "They'll be the quickest team we've faced," Razorback Coach Frank Broyles said Tuesday in commenting on Texas Tech, which hosts Arkansas at Lubbock, Tex., Saturday when both teams close out their seasons.

"We're thinking the worst, looking for the best," Broyles said. The Hogs were forced indoors by rain Tuesday as they continued practice for the Saturday game. A victory would clinch a Cotton Bowl spot for Arkansas.

The Arkansas Civil Air Patrol has failed only twice in its rescue missions during the past 10 years.

Picks Porkers to Take Tech for Cotton Bowl

By DON WEISS Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Just like coach Claassen. Builds his percentage over .725, then takes off for some sun-drenched beach-combing, leaving someone else to take a chill with his football picks.

A 30-13 record last week made grandpa's overall percentage a sprightly .729 on a 318-118 won-lost mark.

Well, someone once called persistence a virtue, so it'll be like this in college football this week-end.

Missouri over Kansas. The alumni association is still pressing for that duck check, but this one is based on merits. Any Tiger bunch that can beat Oklahoma can beat Kansas—at least 7-6.

Minnesota over Wisconsin. The goons who were after Murray Warmath's wig settle for an 8-1 season and a tie for the Big Ten title.

Iowa over Notre Dame. The guy who gets the Irish award is the one who had the foresight to schedule California for Notre Dame's opener. He shoulda quit there. Flashing Iowa makes it eight straight Notre Dame losses.

Duke over North Carolina. On to the Orange Bowl.

Arkansas over Texas Tech. Tech's E. J. Holub can't tackle 'em all. The Hogs toward the Cotton Bowl.

Yale over Harvard. Any given day, sez Princeton's Dick Colman, the unbeaten El can whip anyone.

Washington over Washington State. Next to the Big Five title and a Rose Bowl bid, Washington likes beating State best.

Penn State over Pitt. Play-it-safe Pitt doesn't get a chance to tie this time.

AIC Over, Except for Grudge Game

By WICK TEMPLE Associated Press Staff Writer

It's all over but the grudge game in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference. And this year the grudge game doesn't affect the championship.

Arkansas Tech wrapped up the AIC title last week with a 17-0 victory over Ouachita, the Wonder Boys' ninth victory in a row. This week they meet weak Ozarks in an anticlimatic windup in Russellville.

The good one that's left on the AIC card is the Henderson State Teachers fracas Saturday in Conway. Those two met as unbeaten at this time last year with the AIC title riding on the outcome.

They played viciously to a 7-7 tie and shared the crown. This year, with one loss on each record, they'll be playing for second place. But the football will be just as rough as ever.

Here's the week's forecast: Henderson 13, ASTC 7. We're flipping a coin on this one, but allowing for Henderson's defensive line.

Southern State 14, Arkansas A&M 6. Mulieriders will be a title threat next year, and they'll show it in this one.

Ouachita 13, Hendrix 12. Evenly matched teams with the home field edge the difference.

The Arkansas Civil Air Patrol has failed only twice in its rescue missions during the past 10 years.

Mrs. John Bolton, the program chairman, presented Mrs. Don Blackwood and her 8th grade choral group in three selections. Mrs. Bolton discussed how our schools are rated. A film on "Education Is Good Business."

Health Hints

Nerves! Nerves! Nerves!

Few people realize to what extent they are governed by the nervous system, nor do they realize the importance of the nerves in health.

There are separate nerves for pain, temperature and pressure, there are nerves controlling all muscular activity, nerves for locating the segments in space, nerves for dilating and contracting blood vessels, nerves control secretion.

Then there are nerves of special senses: sight, smell, taste, hearing. Also, nerves regulating the function of all organs, digestion, respiration and speech.

It's now easy, to understand how inadequate nerve supply can and does cause conditions of pain and disease in all parts of the body.

Liz Taylor's Illness Is Diagnosed

LONDON (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor's multimillion-dollar illness finally has been diagnosed by doctors as a comparatively minor irritation of the membranes covering the brain. It is called meningitis and usually is found only in children.

Fears were expressed Sunday when the actress, weeping and clutching her head, was rushed to the London Clinic that she might be suffering from meningitis. Tuesday night, after 48 hours of suspense, the diagnosis ruling out meningitis was announced.

A spokesman for Dr. Carl Goldman, physician for Miss Taylor, explained that "meningitis is caused by a bacteria which is inside the brain. Meningitis is caused by an infection outside the brain and its effects are ephemeral."

He was unable to say what the treatment for meningitis would be or how long Miss Taylor would have to stay in the clinic. He said it was possible she would return to the United States for further treatment to complete her recovery.

Miss Taylor awoke "considera-

Dr. Goldman said the meningism may have been caused by an abscessed tooth or teeth and it would be up to a dentist to decide if extractions were necessary.

Admires How the Other Half Lives

By FRANCIS STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—As a pore old country boy, still full of hay, seeds after years in the big city, I can't help but admire how the other half lives.

I sure do admire how they eat, too.

While gnawing on my cold home-made sandwich the other day, I got to reading in the papers about how the big fellows of business, industry, money and what not take their noonday nourishment.

They eat high up on top of tall buildings.

They also eat high up on the hog, I judge (that's an old expression I brought here with me from Oklahoma).

This article in the paper was telling about the newest skyscraper, spoon-and-fork spot, on top of a new Fifth Avenue building.

The story said that the club probably is the most exclusive, and most expensive, luncheon club in town—serving only 350 top-level business men and financiers. And even those folks can't get in until they have been invited to join.

The paper ran a picture showing a real nice place with big windows so you can look out all over town while you eat. But evidently the big executives don't go just to eat and look out over town. The story said:

"One thing all of these clubs have in common is their attitude—a factor that seems to fulfill some inner need of the executive ego."

Well, I'm not any kind of an executive, but it certainly would fulfill my ego to eat in a place like that. Other parts of me, too, no doubt.

A ham sandwich would taste a heck of a lot better while I was looking out over all of New York.

The newspaper said the Fifth Avenue club probably would charge several hundred dollars more than any of the other places just to join up, so you can get in to buy a bite.

The top price up to now was listed as $1,875 for membership in another such high-falutin' eatery.

But—hang the cost—I'm for the Fifth Avenue. Its membership, said the paper, includes some pretty big names.

Yet there's always a sour apple. One unidentified prominent industrialist was quoted as saying he turned down an invitation to join because "I already belong to several clubs that I never visit. I don't really want to add another to my list."

Tired of eating out, I guess.

Wish I knew his name because I'd like to invite him to share my old cold sandwich from home, during my half-hour lunch period. Ah, snacks. What am I saying. Pure envy. I'd give almost anything to eat up there high in the sky along with all those big wheels.

I might even pay 50 cents for one of their ham sandwiches.

kita Khrushchev and most of the satellite leadership.

Black limousines have been scurrying back and forth through the Kremlin's turreted gates, bearing Communist chieftains to and from summit sessions. One gets the impression there is tough talk going on which will result in publication of a new manifesto.

The new pronouncement will be loaded with platitudes about the unbreakable solidarity of the Red camp under Moscow. But indications are that the leaders are making little progress toward patching up the main differences among them.

The big argument is this: Red China, backed by some dissidents from other Communist parties around the world, objects to Khrushchev's economic aid plans, especially with respect to underdeveloped countries. The Chinese resent any aid which tends to lend political stability to any government which is not Communist-oriented. Throwing Lenin's words at Khrushchev, the Chinese insist that only violent revolution can lead to dictatorships of the proletariat.

Khrushchev's men urge patience and caution. They promise to use Soviet economic policy as "a main influence for world revolution," but project their program over 20 years. They promise to unfold this program at the next 22nd Soviet Communist party congress, probably early in 1961.

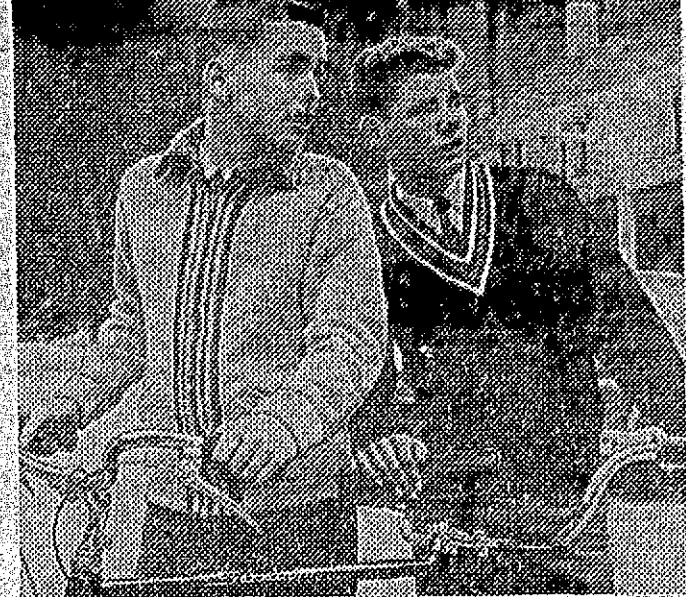

The quarrel has made an important figure of Wladyslaw Gomułka, chief of Poland's Communist party. He is considered the only pro-Khrushchev man who has the ear and the respect of the Chinese Communists. Khrushchev appears to have few other real friends to whom the Chinese will listen.

The Chinese Reds do not want to wait until 1960 for the real beginning of a world revolution. Neither do many of the Communist leaders outside the Soviet orbit, who smell the heady scent of power now and who in 1960 would be too old or too dead to enjoy the fruits of a long range Soviet program. They complain that Khrushchev sacrifices their interests for the sake of purely Soviet aims and policies.

All this tends to put the Chinese Communists in the light of being the greatest danger to world peace today. The big peril could well be that the Red Chinese and their supporters might prevail.

That would mean pressures would be stepped up quickly in all the world's critical areas. The world Communist movement then would be relying principally upon piling chaos upon chaos in attempts to expand communism's rule and influence as swiftly as possible. There would be real danger then of global conflict.

Thus, while the Red quarrel eventually could lead to an explo-

New Sub Already Roaming Atlantic

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—The nuclear-powered submarine George Washington, armed with 16 Polaris missiles, was ready today to begin roaming the Atlantic.

In the words of Rear Adm. K. M. McManes, 6th District commander, the killer-sub will be on "a mission of good will for all who want good will and mission of absolute destruction for all those who want that."

He said the 300-foot sub carries a destructive capacity "equal to year."

The sleek sub, its missiles armed with hydrogen bomb warheads, was scheduled to depart from placid Charleston harbor at about noon.

The vessel is expected to stay at sea for about two years, returning then for a new nuclear reactor. In the meantime, it will patrol undisclosed areas with alternating crews.

Henderson State Teachers College offered courses in science and mathematics over TV last year, until 1962.

School Board Head Having Tough Time

By DAVID ZINMAN

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Lloyd J. Rittiner, president of the embattled New Orleans School Board that authorized Louisiana's first school integration since Reconstruction, is a rangy, rugged man with no love for telephones or mailmen.

Rittiner's unpaid school board post, him squarely on the horns of a sizzling dilemma.

The Louisiana Legislature demanded he maintain segregation. A federal court ordered school integration.

The school board—which has had its power taken away by the state and restored by the federal courts four times since August—obeyed the court order Monday.

The 44-year-old engineer's phone rings day and night. Mailmen pile letters by the score on his doorstep.

"Let me say, I think you're a disgrace to your country, to the South, and to your race," one letter read.

"Traitor, scoundrel, coward, vote hound," the names trailed endlessly as Rittiner read the letters in his office.

"When I was elected to the board four years ago," Rittiner said, "I never dreamed I would be in the public eye like this. I don't say I would have dodged it. But I didn't think it (integration) could have happened here."

Ironically, Rittiner regards himself a staunch segregationist. Yet he voted with three of four other board members for a pupil placement plan that admitted four Negro girls to white schools Monday.

Why Rittiner said he feared integration to a choice between integration or destruction of Louisiana's public schools.

He owns and runs three engineering companies. Rittiner, who is divorced, has two children. A boy and a girl, both attending public schools.

Rittiner said he ran for a post on the school board—which has a $28-million budget for its 45,000 children—because he felt like doing some service work for the city.

"Everybody can give money," Rittiner said. "I felt like giving my time."

He ends his one-year term on board president next month. He keeps his 6-year board seat, however, until 1962.

Nervousness Dominates Red Meeting

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Associated Press news Analyst

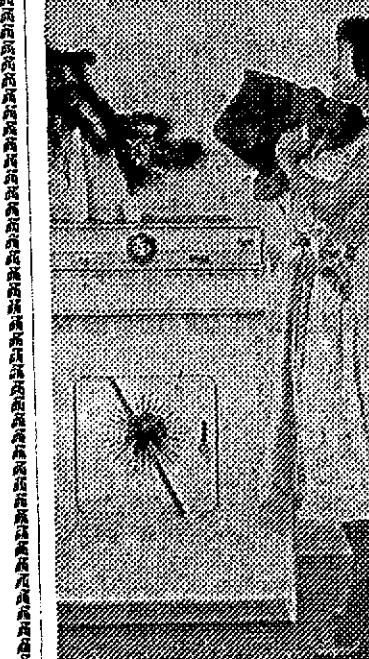

For a week world Communist leaders have been meeting at the summit. All the secrecy surrounding their sessions cannot hide a growing nervousness.

One basic point of cleavage worries them more than any other. It is not the question whether war is inevitable, nor the question of how Communist-ruled nations should develop internally. These are side issues.

The big quarrel concerns expansion of the Communist movement. This pits the leadership of Red China, Albania and possibly even the East Germans, backed by some chieftains from parties outside the Soviet orbit, against Ni-

Propulsion by A-Power Exciting

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Next to atomic power and heating plants, the peaceful use of nuclear energy that most excites the imagination of scientists and general public alike is in the field of propulsion.

Atomic-powered submarines, ships, aircraft, trains, cars and trucks—and, of course, space devices—also arouse business interest—and, of course, space devices—also arouse business interest. Government, defense and civil agencies are prime movers in most of these studies. But private business gets most of the contracts.

Still ahead lies the dream of turning such devices into transportation competitive in a profit-and-loss world with the older conventional fuel types.

A report to the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy Congress of the United States, notes that: "Reactors and radioactive materials have been considered as propulsive energy for ships, air craft, ground transport and space devices. None of these, however, holds early promise of being competitive in civilian use."

The search goes on. Many countries with shipping interests explore the possibilities. In the government field, the United States already has nuclear submarines, a cargo and passenger ship, and the Soviet Union has an ice-breaker and says they also have atomic subs.

The report to the congressional committee, made at its request by Robert McKinney, who was first permanent representative of the United States to the International Atomic Energy Agency in Vienna, Hungary, suggests that using nuclear propulsion units in conventional hulls may be the wrong civilian approach. He suggests, "There may be a need for a rethinking of marine transport systems and patterns as a whole."

McKinney, a former assistant secretary of the interior, who is editor and publisher of the Santa Fe New Mexican, adds: "Systems now in use, such as sea-trains and submarine cargo ships, associated with advanced high-speed cargo-handling terminals, may be explored in the future."

Scientists studying propulsion on the ground—locomotives, off-road vehicles, placer dredges—

Louisiana Man Freed of Charge

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Municipal court has freed Camille P. Gravel, former Democratic national committeeman from Louisiana, of an intoxication charge arising from an incident aboard an airplane last July 1.

The complaint was dismissed Monday after the prosecutor told he had run into engineering and radiation hazards more serious than those encountered in stationary atomic electric power plants.

Atomic aircraft has been explored as a possibility but the report to the congressional committee headed by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., feels that space technology seems to have dimmed these prospects.

Atlas Streaks for 5,000 Miles

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A power-packed intercontinental range Atlas missile streaked 5,000 miles down the Atlantic missile range early today.

The Air Force reported the Atlas, America's most potent military rocket, achieved all test objectives in plunking its nose cone on target near Ascension Island in the South Atlantic.

Ships and planes began a search for a data capsule that popped out of the 1½-ton cone and was parachuted into the sea.

Election Plan Good Back in 1788

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—It seemed like a good idea back in 1788 to have the president of the United States chosen by an electoral college.

The idea was to have the best people in each state get together and pick the best man in the country to run things. It worked fine as long as George Washington was around.

Washington won the unanimous vote of the electors in 1789 and 1792, but never again did the system work the way it was supposed to. The grill of politics got in the gear box.

Once the people began to have a say as to who were the best men in each state and rival parties started pushing rival candidates, the whole idea of a genteel aristocracy tapping one of its members as president collapsed.

But despite its failure and the repeated attacks on it, the system is still with us and the antiquated machinery will have to be cranked up on Dec. 19 to make the election of John F. Kennedy official.

On that day the electors will meet in their respective states and confirm what the voters did last Tuesday. Each state gets as many votes as it has members in Congress.

Originally the electors in most states were chosen by their state legislatures but now they are picked by party leaders in each state (although Alabama picked them in a primary). This state of electors is what the voters choose, not a presidential candidate. The vote is recorded in the candidate's name, however, and as the system has evolved, the electors' votes in almost all cases belong to him.

Fourteen unpledged electors in Alabama and Mississippi will be free to vote for anybody they want on Dec. 19, but their votes can't change the result as it now stands.

Considering the potential for trouble in adhering to such a system it is remarkable that only four elections in the nation's history have been snugged in it.

The worst mess was in 1876 when Democrat Samuel B. Tilden won the popular vote but fell one

Castle Just Doesn't Tell His Gimmicks

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—William Castle, never prone to understatement, says the gimmick in his latest score epic is the best in the history of the theater.

This covers a lot of ground, since theater history spans from Sophocles to the Three Stooges. Yet Castle says his idea for "Houdini" has never been tried by any of his artistic predecessors. Just what is it?

"Ah, I never reveal my gimmicks before the picture is released," he says.

Vote short of an electoral majority due to conflicting electoral counts in three Southern states. The House was Democratic that year and the Senate Republican. Neither would let the other act.

Finally a commission of five scholars, five representatives and five Supreme Court justices voted on the rival claims and by a 7-7 vote awarded all the disputed votes to the Republican candidate, Rutherford B. Hayes. He was named president just two days before Inauguration Day.

He marched upward to "The House on Haunted Hill," for which he employed a skeleton sailing over the patrons' heads. Then came "The Tingler," which was literally so, the theater seats being wired for shock.

His latest accomplishment was "Thirteen Ghosts," which were visible via special spectacles but unseen by the naked eye.

"Columbia ordered only 1,000,000 of the glasses, which I sold

GIFT WRAPPING SUGGESTION: SELECT PAPER TO match the size of the gift—a small design, for instance, to cover a tiny package. Keep in mind the taste and personality of the recipient. And, choose wrapping aids, such as the "knotless bow" shown here, to simplify wrapping. The ribbon sticks to itself when moistened, virtually eliminating the need for tying knots.

Admiral Doused by a Missile

QUONSET POINT, R.I. (AP)—A Polaris missile submarine dropped a practice round too close to a pier today, dousing the Joint Chiefs of Staff and some admirals and generals with water.

"Heads up! Heads up!" shouted an unidentified admiral as the dummy missile popped from the water-filled tubes of the submarine. Robert B. Lee.

The dummy seemed to hang in the air above the sub. A blast south wind sprayed the water toward the adjoining pier where the brass hats were gathered. They broke and ran fast, but not fast enough. Most were thoroughly drenched.

"The dummy landed in the water about 80 yards from the sub, them was not enough," said Castle triumphantly. "The final order will be 10 million."

Now comes "Houdini" with his gimmick supreme. It is the most ambitious effort to date. "Imagine, 20 shooting days! I've only had 10 or 11 before."

Despite the sneers of critics, Castle has compounded an amazing record.

"The four pictures have cost a total of $760,000," he declared. "They will make a gross profit of $1 million."

An Analysis of the Various Factors That Led to the Election of Mr. Kennedy

NEW YORK

This is the big one, with 45 electoral votes. And Kennedy won it big, with a 400,000-vote margin.

Three of the five political wills consulted by the AP think Kennedy's religion was a major factor in sweeping New York.

Leo Egan of the New York Times put it this way: "A great many Catholics who have been voting Republican apparently switched to Sen. Kennedy this time in the hope of electing a Catholic president for the first time in this nation's history."

Poor economic conditions, Egan added, hurt Nixon in some areas.

Jack Medoff of the Buffalo Evening News agreed, saying, "There are only two logical conditions why so many Republicans voted for Kennedy, and then went back to their own party on the voting machines:

"1. Buffalo is predominately Catholic, an estimated 85 per cent.

"2. Even if it is said in hush-hush tones, the Buffalo area is very much depressed."

And Arvis Chambers of the Albany Knickerbocker News:

"1. Kennedy's religion.

"2. Support of ethnic groups whose backing had helped achieve New Deal victories of the 1930s and 40s.

"3. A better-than-usual vote in economically depressed areas."

Tim O'Hara of the New York Herald Tribune, was impressed with the way Kennedy ran his campaign.

"The Kennedy personal planning was astounding in its depth. The Kennedy personal machine kept up a steady barrage on the voters by bringing in distinguished speakers almost daily. Republicans complained even during the campaign that their man failed to do this."

And Dick Lee of the New York Daily News said: "Nixon's unpopularity with the New York voters, plus the economic conditions throughout the state and a slight touch of Mr. Rockefeller's high taxes, were responsible for the

MINNESOTA

When Minnesota's 11 electoral votes went to Kennedy, at noon Wednesday, he was home a winner.

Sidney Goldfish, who directs the Minneapolis Tribune's poll, bases his analysis on his pre-election samplings.

Goldfish found that, in Minnesota at least, Kennedy had a stronger appeal for young voters and for women than Adlai Stevenson had in 1956. And Kennedy drew Stevenson also among college-educated persons, 33 per cent to 21 per cent, the polling indicated.

The Duluth Herald said editorially poor economic conditions in northern Minnesota, including the famous Iron Range, helped Kennedy.

And Managing Editor Franklin Rogers of the Mankato Free Press comes up with what could be the greatest irony of the 1960 campaign.

In West Virginia's primaries Kennedy ran over Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., so convincingly Humphrey dropped out of the race completely.

Yet, Rogers says, "Kennedy owes his Minnesota victory to the popularity of Sen. Humphrey, who led his ticket by a wide margin. If Humphrey had not been on the ticket, it's doubtful if Kennedy would have carried Minnesota."

PENNSYLVANIA

As far as Kennedy is concerned, the big news here (32 electoral votes) is the Philadelphia story.

Or in the words of James R. Doran, editor of the Harrisburg Patriot-News:

"Sorting out causes for Nixon's defeat in Pennsylvania: (1) The astounding 32,407 Democratic plurality piled up by Rep. William J. Green's Philadelphia city machine. (2) The Republicans' 200,000 deficit in 10 distressed area counties. And (3) The religious issue."

Joseph M. Miller of the Philadelphia Inquirer points out that Democrats have a city registration of 687,000 voters — and Kennedy polled 612,000. Republicans registered 408,000 and Nixon polled 285,000.

"The complete collapse of the Philadelphia Republican organization," Miller says, "was the chief factor contributing to the outcome in Pennsylvania."

Adrian Lee of the Philadelphia Bulletin says unemployment and religion were the big factors in Pennsylvania. And on religion, Lee believes Kennedy was a big winner.

Republican Catholics flocked to Kennedy, but "in most of the so-called Bible belt counties, the anti-Catholic feeling didn't generate much bigger majorities than president Eisenhower got in 1956."

And the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette & Sun-Telegraph said in its post-election analysis: "The overriding factor in Pennsylvania undoubtedly was economic. There are pockets of serious unemployment and underemployment."

TEXAS

Texas wandered off the Democratic reservation in 1952 and 1956 — and many believed it would give its 24 electoral votes to Nixon.

And when you wonder why it went to Kennedy you get three different reasons from three observers.

Sam Kinch of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram thinks personality played a major role: "Nixon was never able to match the popularity of Eisenhower. When he let himself get drawn into that debate series, he came off second best."

Raymond Brooks of the Austin American-Statesman credits Lyndon B. Johnson with getting the Democrats to close ranks and attack the Republicans.

"He had bridged most of the old Democratic family conflicts, drawing into teamwork many who had spent the last eight years fighting each other."

And Bob Hollingsworth of the Dallas Times Herald:

"The religious issue cut both ways for Kennedy. Protestant rural areas chose to remain Democratic rather than vote against a Roman Catholic. And Kennedy won areas where Catholic Latin Americans are concentrated: El Paso, San Antonio and South Texas to the Lower Rio Grande Valley."

GIFT SUGGESTION FROM the Leather Industries of America: This elegant lustrous leather evening coat with detachable jeweled collar. It's a fashion gift that is certain to please.

"Much of this went to Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956."

ILLINOIS

Kennedy won Illinois' 27 votes — by a whisker.

"The religious issue," John Dreiske of the Chicago Sun-Times said, "proved to be a big factor in saving Kennedy in Illinois."

Dreiske thinks many Catholics who normally vote Republican went for Kennedy. And he thinks the Negro vote in Chicago was a big item in helping Kennedy carry the state.

Chicago's American said editorially: "The Democratic sweep in Cook County (Chicago) proved again the enormous influence wielded by Mayor (Richard J.) Daley and the well oiled efficiency of his organization."

"Elsewhere in the state the trend was toward splitting tickets. In Chicago the trend was countered by the massive straight ticket vote marshaled by the disciplined Democrats."

MICHIGAN

Kennedy was supposed to take this state's 20 electoral votes fairly easily. It wasn't easy, but he won them.

Here's William C. Kulsea, Lansing bureau chief for the Booth Newspapers, Inc., and his view of what happened:

"Kennedy took Michigan because of a superior Democratic-AFL-CIO political machine and his attraction to women voters. He fired up party workers much more than Stevenson did in 1952 and 1956, and was able to overcome the issue of religion which did hurt him some in outstate Michigan."

Ray Courago, who handles politics for the Detroit Free Press, says:

"The most significant factor in Michigan is that the results seem to indicate that this state definitely is in the Democratic column now, chiefly from population increases."

CALIFORNIA

With its 32 electoral votes, this was a major—and unpredictable—battle. Kennedy was leading, but the margin was so close Republicans still hope enough Nixon votes will be found to pull this, his home state, back into his column.

Earl C. Behrens, the veteran political editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, thinks religion was important, and he thinks minority groups, especially Negroes and the Mexican-Americans in Los Angeles, swung from Eisenhower to Kennedy.

Carl Greenberg, the political editor of the Los Angeles Examiner: "Primarily, I believe the TV debates had tremendous impact. They utterly destroyed an earlier image of Kennedy as an immature young man."

"Additionally, I'm inclined to believe the management of the Nixon campaign somehow got off the track."

COLORADO

Here Republican hustle helped swing its six electoral votes to Nixon.

Bert Hanna of the Denver Post says that at a time when "the Democratic organization on the state level was demoralized," there was a "vastly improved and militant Republican organization."

The Rocky Mountain News said editorially that "concern for the sound dollar and a firm foreign policy" influenced Colorado voters, and "the much discussed 'farm revolt' just wasn't there."

WASHINGTON

Before the election, the pitch was that Democratic Gov. Albert D. Rosellini was in trouble and was clutching desperately for Kennedy's coattails.

Yet Rosellini was re-elected. Kennedy lost Washington's nine electoral votes.

Slub Nelson of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and Ross Cunningham of the Seattle Times agree that this is partly due to Washington's independent, unpredictable voters, plus a Kennedy organization run by amateurs and a Nixon organization staffed by professionals.

HAWAII

The vote is so close it could go either way, and unofficially has switched already from Nixon to Kennedy and back to Nixon.

And what happened out there? William H. Ewing, editor of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin:

"The international Longshoremen and Warehousemen Union that support of Nixon in the islands road state."

Editors to Editory to Support South

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP)—The editor of the Memphis Commercial-Appeal today called on newspaper publishers to provide direction and support for progress in the "Creative South."

"Creativeness—this is the tenor of the times and the challenge," Frank R. Ahlgren told delegates to the annual convention of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association.

"We are growing by leaps and bounds in the South — growing, learning, inventing, and absorbing, changing, progressing," he said. "That's the picture of the creative South."

Ahlgren said the South has made vast strides in recent years on four fronts:

1. The massive industrialization experienced by the South in the past decade.

2. The tremendous expansion and improvement of the public school systems and universities.

3. The South's changing agriculture.

4. The wave of cultural progress which has swept across the South. He said the Southerner of today is not merely a product of a plodding society. He has changed willingly for the most part, he has Americanized himself.

"The task today," Ahlgren said, "is to accustom the rural South to the transcendence of the urban South."

He also said the Southern press must help maintain the momentum of progress built up during recent years in all of the various fields.

"We must be better than average," he told the publishers. "We should have the courage and willingness to solve our problems."

This, Ahlgren said, "is the credo for every Southerner today regardless of color, profession or economic status."

In addition to the Ahlgren address, today's schedule included a "meet the press" panel, moderated by Turner Callledge, managing editor of the New York Times. Ahlgren and other speakers for the three-day convention were questioned by a panel of publishers on the future of the South.

100 Years Old, Feels 1,000

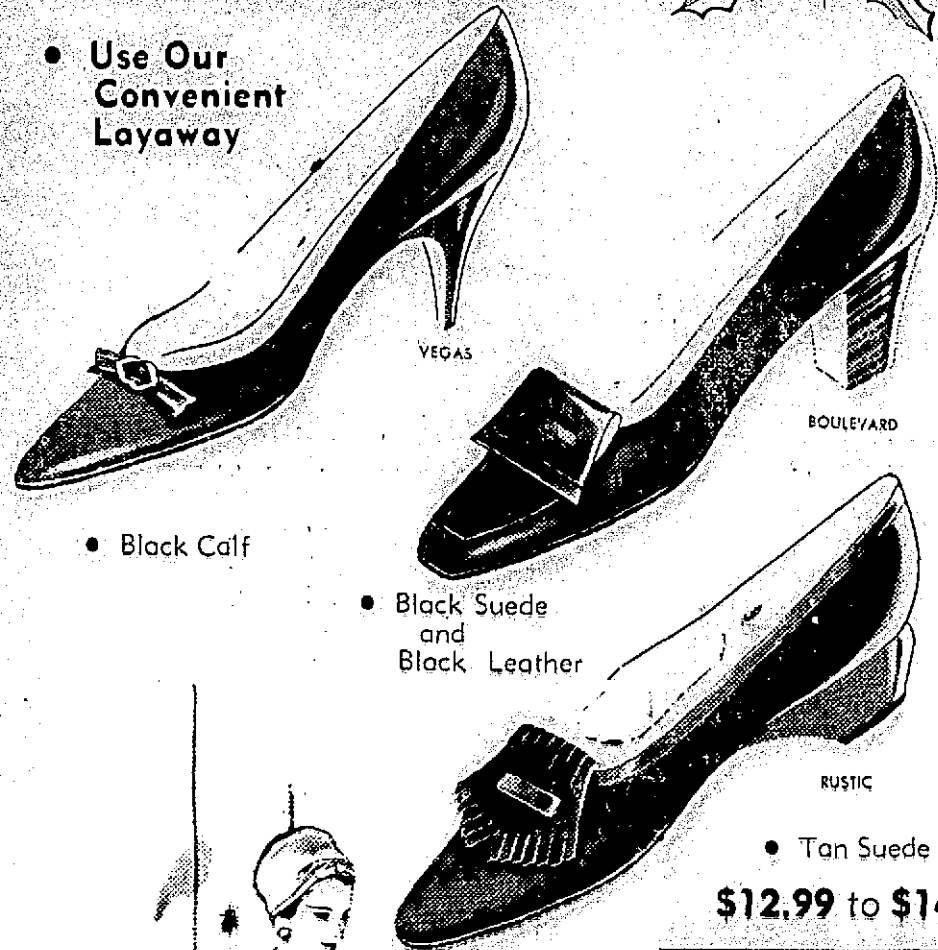

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—"I feel a thousand years old," retired lumberjack John Sands told news men.

Actually John Sands is 100 years old today, but he still has to take a back seat to another resident of the Seattle resi-home where it lives.

Sands and Margaret Star, Seattle, got together Monday for some picture-taking and pre-birthday celebrating. Mrs. Star, 101, will be 101 Nov. 22.

Few Facts of Life About Arkansas

By BOB HARING
Associated Press Staff Writer

There's a lot of geography to be learned right in Arkansas. The eighth graders of Mrs. Nita Blackwell at Little Rock's West Side Junior High School proved that recently. Starting with a list of "foreign" places to be found within the state's borders as reported here a few weeks back, the geography students compiled a list of 40 communities which share the names of other cities or countries.

(Actually, the list contains only

38 names—Success, used in the column for the really good reason is on it, and the students added Lebanon but apparently couldn't locate it in a county. The Highway Department map fails to show Lebanon, either.

The original list offered Moscow, Paris, Greenwich Village, London, Canada, Palestine, Jerusalem, Jerusalem, Manila, Dublin, Havana, Formosa, Congo and Dallas.

But say the fledgling geographers, you also can see Scotland (Van Buren County), England (Lonoke County), Sweden (Jefferson County), Little Italy (Franklin County), Denmark (White County), Holland (Pulaski County), Jordan (Baxter County) or Egypt (Jackson County).

Or if you're in a state-touring mood, try Delaware (Logan County) or Montana (Johnson County) or, in an Alaskan fashion, Yukon (Desha County).

If your taste runs to exotic cities and historical locations, try Waterloo (Nevada County), Dover (Pope County), Damascus (Van Buren County), Hamburg (Ashley County), Berlin (Ashley County), Tokio (Pike County), Genoa (Miller County), El Paso (Pulaski County), Athens (Howard County), Belfast (Grant County), or Atlanta (Columbia County).

You also can see Ben Hur without paying a movie admission. It's in Newton County.

Interested in a little game? Clip out the above list of cities, then, get a paper and pencil ready and brush the dust off the

Ruble Never Worth What Reds Claimed

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The Soviet Union is devaluing its ruble in terms of its theoretical gold content. This is bringing it close to what the rest of the world all along has thought it was worth—about one-fourth of what the Kremlin has pretended it was worth.

Since the Soviet Union conducts most of its trade with the non-Communist nations in the form of barter anyway, the change over to the new "heavy ruble" Jan. 1 will be largely one of bookkeeping without much apparent practical effect.

In international politics, the U.S.S.R. is hoping to make the world think that its new ruble is worth more than the American dollar. Few businessmen—whether American or foreigners—will buy that propaganda.

They can't take rubles out of the Soviet Union. They can't convert them into gold—whether they be the present rubles or the ones which strictly at home will be worth 10 of the old rubles. Businessmen aren't allowed to convert rubles freely into the currency of their own lands.

Business transactions of the Soviet Union with the Western world will still be strictly on a barter basis. Example: The U.S.S.R. trades Cuba so much oil and machinery in exchange for so much sugar. And if the U.S.S.R. grants ruble credits to nations in Africa and Asia they must use the rubles to buy Soviet machinery or technical aid.

In gold, the new Soviet move means simply that the heavy ruble is said to be worth some four times as much as the present one—that is, 0.08 grams of gold for the new one against 0.22 grams for the old. Only, just try to get the gold.

Stripped of the usual Communist hocus-pocus, this is devaluation. It is like the talk of the devaluation of the dollar which stirred Europe a few weeks back to pay premium prices for gold.

The United States was supposed to cut the value of the dollar by raising the price of gold, now $35 an ounce. The United States didn't, and no one seriously expects it to. If it ever should it would be devaluing the dollar.

The U.S.S.R. is raising its price for gold—thus giving the devaluation of the ruble, while the United States isn't devaluing the dollar. Russian can turn in 10 of his old francs, did a while back, when in the Soviet Union itself, the rubles and get a single new one. It wanted to top some of the old francs, but the changeover simply means that a ruble is roughly similar to what heavy zeros off its paper francs.

Questions That Lead to Trouble

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Questions that only lead to trouble — if you don't watch your answers.

"Will you have one more for the road?"

"My little boy told me that your little boy has been bragging that his father can knock the block off my little boy's father. Do you believe that yourself?"

"Do you want me to see if I can fix your television set? I'm no expert, but it's probably just a loose connection. So if you'll just get me a pair of pliers, a hacksaw and a hammer, I'll be glad to."

"Really this time I want your honest opinion. What do you think of my new hat?"

"Where'd you think you're going — to a flea?"

"Oh, it's only midnight. Don't you want to stay for just one more hand, and recoup your losses?"

"If your young daughter loves to see kittens, why don't you bring her by our house this afternoon? We have six new-born ones."

"It is okay then if we put you down to play Santa Claus at our annual Christmas party I can tell you now, you'll have the time of your life."

"If you think these martinis aren't quite dry enough, perhaps you'd help me make the next batch."

"Don't you think if you gave the wheel a sharp turn to the left, you could squeeze the car in there without tearing off that guy's bumper?"

"Are you the father of the little boy who has been going around the neighborhood demonstrating his 'new slingshot'?"

"Every time you come home from a college reunion you start talking about that girl you dated when you were a sophomore. Just what did she have that I don't have?"

"Offhand, what do you think of the idea of inviting mother to spend the winter with us?"

"The band instructor says junior has natural musical talent. Is it ried me."

NOTHING BETTER THAN an exciting sweater for the Miss and Mrs. on your gift list. The wide, wide turtleneck invites a sparkling pin or scarf fill-in. Its longer length goes equally well with pants or skirts. And, the texture-knit is new, too.

all right if I let him start taking tuba lessons."

"Which dress does the most for me — the $125 cocktail gown or the $39 sheath?"

"Are you just going to stand there and let that big bully insult me?"

"Just who do you think you're pushing, Mac?"

"If something happened to you, you would want to leave your dear ones amply protected, wouldn't you?"

"Daddy, would you mind showing me how you used to turn a car wheel when you were a boy?"

"Mind you, I don't like yes men. What's your frank opinion of how I'm running the department?"

"If you think it should be easy to run a house on the money you give me, how would you like to try it yourself for a week or two?"

"Just for the fun of it, how'd you like to act as umpire for our Little League games this season?"

"All right big mouth, just tell me what you think your life would have been like if you hadn't married me."

Variety of Topics Being Discussed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Murder, age, suicide, and hot weather diets are topics this week with a focus on health.

The Sudden Murders

The sudden murders who kill without apparent reason usually have abnormal brain activity, British researchers report.

They charted the electrical activity in the brains of known murderers in English prisons. Among those who murdered while trying to commit some other crime, one in four showed brain abnormalities—roughly the same as other prisoners.

Among those who killed after considerable personal provocation, only 17 per cent showed abnormal. But of those who murdered without motive or provocation except for the stress of sexual excitement, resentment or exhaustion, 75 per cent had brain abnormalities.

Hot Weather Eaters

The hotter it is the more you need to eat, Army researchers report.

Men living in 105 degree desert heat ate some 400 calories more per day than did men living in air-conditioned comfort. They also gained weight, probably due to drinking more water.

The hot weather eaters needed more food for several reasons: increased blood flow to aid the body's adjustment to the heat, greater sweat gland activity and the loss of calories due to sweat loss.

Child Suicides

Under the age of 15, suicide is a minor cause of death. But there, after it becomes more and more important as a killer, a new study shows.

Discipline, emotional upset, depression, jealousy, school and family problems were the most frequent reasons for attempted suicides. Lesser reasons: Drug addiction and the birth of an illegitimate child. The highest number of attempts came at the age of 18.

Parents should watch for a sudden change in personality or behavior, anxiety, irritability, depression, insomnia and frequent but unnecessary outbursts of temper.

RX Daffodils

U.S. studies of a Soviet-discovered drug are yielding a whole family of new compounds that hold hope for persons suffering from nerve-muscle diseases like myasthenia gravis.

A NEW IDEA FOR DECORATING YOUR CHRISTMAS trees, front door, windows or holiday paper items are frosty "Holiday Sprinkles." They are pellets resembling snowdrops, mistletoe and holly berries. A can of adhesive is included in the package that contains three bags of these plastic decorations. After the holiday, they may be removed with common soap.

HANDSOME PAIR ON CHRISTMAS MORN! JUNIOR'S jacket is warm, but lightweight in an all-cotton shell and Curon lining. Features a zip-front, hacking pockets and tri-color rib knit shawl collar. Dad's all-cotton jacket reverses to corduroy and features attached hood that tucks into zippered pocket beneath the shawl collar. And in the box—a button-down shirt.

Awards Made for Press Coverage

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—

The Associated Press Managing Editors Association awarded 43 citations today for outstanding participation in news and newsphoto coverage. The awards were announced at the opening session of the annual APME convention in this historic city.

Thirty-eight of the citations went to newspapers, five to broadcasting stations. Those honored turned in exceptional jobs in the coverage of news events in behalf of all AP members. As usual, many members supplied details and photos before they were able to use the information themselves.

The citations were signed by John H. Colburn of the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch, APME president, and Richard L. Young Jr. of the Charlotte (N.C.) News, chairman of the membership citations committee.

Those receiving citations were: News Coverage—The Sentinel-Record and The New Era, both of Hot Springs, Ark.; Station WJPS, Evansville, Ind.; The Pittsburg (Kan.) Herald-Sun; the Portland (Maine) Press-Herald; the Bozeman (Mont.) Daily Chronicle; Station WELM, Elmira, N.Y.; the Gloversville (N.Y.) Leader-Herald; The Maryville-Alcan. (Tenn.) Daily Times; Station KRLD and KRLD-TV, Dallas; Station KNUZ, Houston; the Martinsville (Va.) Bulletin; Station WPUV, Pulaski, Va.; the Merrill (Wis.) Daily Herald.

Newsphoto Coverage—The Evansville (Ind.) Courier; The Bakersfield Californian; The Indianapolis News; The Marion (Ind.) Chronicle-Tribune; The The Wausau (Wis.) Daily Record (Portland, Ore.) Oregonian; Greil, Williamsport, Pa.; the Salt Lake Tribune; the Lynchburg (Va.) News; The Roanoke (Va.) Times; the Wausau (Wis.) Daily Record-Herald.

News and Newsphoto Coverage—The Valdosta (Ga.) Daily Times; The (La Salle, Ill.) Daily News-Tribune; The (Olathe, Kan.) Daily Republican-News; the (Olathe, Kan.) Daily Courier; The (Owensboro, Ky.) Messenger and Inquirer; The Saginaw (Mich.) News; The Worthington (Minn.) Daily Globe; The Biloxi-Gulfport (Miss.) Daily Herald; The Findlay (Ohio) Republican-Courier; The (Roseburg, Ore.) News-Review; The (Uniontown, Pa.) Evening Standard.
